MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1914

NO. 240.

HE LIKES TO WORK

JOHN J. MAHONEY WOULD RATHER WORK THAN LOAF.

RETIREES FROM SERVICE

On Account of Ill Health After a Continuous Service of 46 Years on the Railroad.

"How does it go, this being a gentleman of leisure," John J. Mahoney was asked Monday by a friend who learned of his retirement from the service of the Burlington railway.

"I would rather work any day than loaf," said Mr. Mahoney, "and no man would ever catch me laying around if my strength had not failed me."

And that is the truth. Mr. Mahoney is justly proud of the esteem in which he has been held by the company, and he is especially grateful for the kind treatment he has received from the officials all these years, and from those at the passenger and freight stations. He has been employed by men and has employed hundreds of men during his work of forty-six years, and has managed to get along without trouble. When asked how he contrived to get along so well with the many sorts of men he has had to deal with, he laughed heartily and said he guessed he preferred to do as an Irishman is supposed to do, to let his body suffer, or chose to be a live coward than anybody's dead hero.

Mr. Mahoney has a record any man could well be proud of. In all the years he has cared for the Maryville section on the Burlington, a string of track nine miles long, the wrecking train has never had to go over until a month ago, when a freight engine went off the track at a point near the Wabash Y. And he never had but one handcar broken. That was quite a number of years ago. A passenger was pretty late and he had waited some time for it to pass. He finally concluded he and his men could make it to Maryville along about quitting time, and they were getting along their way right well, when here came the passenger around a curve full tilt. He saw it could not be stopped in time and slowed down his own handcar and called to his men to jump. They did, but the handcar was demolished. He was not held responsible by the company and a new handcar soon took its place. Another evidence of the company's faith in him.

Many has been the time in the night after a storm that Mr. Mahoney has left his home on his farm, two miles southeast of Maryville, that lies to the east of the Burlington track, to see if things were all right along the section. He said he had often been tormented with the thought that if a train should be wrecked and lives lost along his line, caused by a weakness in the track, that he could never forgive himself for negligence. And it was this thought that held him so closely to his duty.

I thought a great deal of the company and loved the men over me, but after awhile I got to thinking just as much of the people that traveled over the line each day, the people I did not know. I was always thinking of their safety. And we never had wrecks and I am so glad about it. I can rest content in my old days, knowing that no man lost his life through my negligence, and that I watched every foot of track faithfully."

Mr. Mahoney says that things grew better and better with the years. Some people seem to think that things are not made as good as they used to be. He says that all the materials for use in his work have grown better and better and that the manufacture of all railroad materials are better now than ever before.

WRITES OF FREE TEXT BOOKS.

State Superintendent Says Plan is Successful Wherever It Has Been Put Into Practice.

State Superintendent Wm. P. Evans writes County Superintendent Wm. Oakerson as follows about free text books which will be voted upon by the Maryville school district at the coming April school election:

"I desire to call your attention to the Free Textbook Law. Any district city or county, may vote on Free Textbooks at the annual school meeting, if 15 days notice has been given.

"I do not wish to present a treatise on 'Free Textbooks,' but I do wish to call your attention to the fact that all the arguments for free public schools, free schoolhouses, free desks, free libraries and laboratories are arguments for free textbooks. Free textbooks are an essential part of a free public school system. Several states now have free books. No state has ever abandoned free textbooks after once adopting the system. St. Louis has supplied free books to its public school pupils for several years. Free books have been highly satisfactory in that city. Several large cities, as Kansas City, Chillicothe, Cape Girardeau, Jefferson City, etc., adopted free textbooks last fall under the Orr law. All report that the system is quite satisfactory.

"Free books enable many poor children to attend school who otherwise would remain out of school. Free textbooks save much on the cost of books. States and cities that have free books testify that the average annual cost per pupil is 40 cents to 75 cents. In Missouri, after the initial cost of installing free books, the county foreign insurance tax fund will maintain free books for the elementary grades. This fund now amounts to about 34 cents per pupil enumerated, or about 50 cents per pupil enrolled. In several cities 50 cents per pupil maintains free books for both the high school and the grades. Under the Orr law, a district is allowed three years in which to install free books. The foreign insurance money received the first year usually supply all the books for the first four grades in any school.

"Free books also save much time at the opening of school, since all pupils are supplied with books the first day. When pupils must supply their own books, the time lost while waiting for the books is enormous.

"Several county superintendents have called the attention of their rural school boards to this law. If you have not done so, I advise that you do so at once. In Wayne county 28 rural schools have adopted free books. So far as reported to this office, free books are very satisfactory in these districts. Monday, March 23rd, is the last day for posting notices for the annual school election."

USUAL TAX LEVY MADE OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

To Be Voted On at the Coming Election—Terms of Two Members of the Board Expire.

Purpose of the Organization is to Promote the Poultry Industry of the County.

At a school board meeting held Monday night, the regular levy of six mills in addition to the four mills authorized by law will be submitted to be voted upon at the coming April election. This levy is for the purpose of maintaining the schools and is the same as it has always been for the past several years. Last summer the board paid off $20,000 of the bond issue and with the $6,000 ordered Monday night, it will make $26,000 that has been paid off of the $75,000 bond issue for the new school building, leaving yet due $49,000 which can be paid any time before 1927.

The terms of the two members of the school board, L. E. Carpenter and W. H. Crawford, will expire at the April election. Mr. Carpenter has only been a member for a short time, succeeding W. A. SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

The County Court to Meet Saturday in Regard to Polk Township Bond Issue.

A special term of the county court will be held Saturday relative to the $50,000 road bond issue which was recently sold by the court to the Farmers Trust company of this city, who was bidding for the Central Trust company of Chicago. A form of bond will be considered and also other matters in connection with the issue.

PROPER TIME TO DRAG ROADS.

With Little Time With a Drag the Highways Could Be Put in First Class Shape.

"Now is the proper time for dragging the roads," said a well known good roads booster today. "The condition of the dirt is just right to work nicely with a drag and with little trouble the highways could be put in good shape now, and when the spring rains fall, instead of the water standing in the road, it would run off and not soften the roadbed."

This suggestion is worth heeding. The recent snows softened the dirt and the March wind has dried it slowly and the dirt now is loose and can be worked any way. Many of the farmers in the county were at work on the roads, and where the road drag has been used you can readily see the difference in not only the appearance of the road, but in traveling over it. The road is rounded to the center and slopes off on both sides and there is absolutely no chance for the water to stand. The rains will harden the dirt and within a short time the thoroughfare will be practically as good as paved streets.

Good roads are essential in every community and the highways should be looked after the same as a farmer looks after his spring plowing.

ANNIVERSARY DAYS.

Fifty-Two Years Ago Things Were Going On That Had Much to Do With the Peace and Plenty of Now

We are right now living amidst some notable anniversary days of history. Cooper Gooden of this city has some old files of Harper's Weekly in his list of keepsakes that contain reading matter of peculiar interest.

The papers contain an account of the battle of Pea Ridge, fought March 6, 7 and 8, 1862.

The confederate steamer Merrimac ran down the frigate Cumberland at Newport News, March 8, 1862.

The Ericson batters, Monitor, drove off the Merrimac March 9, 1862.

The bombardment of Island No. 10 by the mortar fleet, March 16, 1862.

The storming of Fort Thompson at Newbern, N. C., by Burnside's expedition, which took place March 14, 1862.

The battle at Winchester, Va., begun March 15, 1862, and ended the next day. General James Shields, the hero of two wars and senator from three states, was the commander of Winchester battle.

The battle between the confederate Merrimac and the monitor at Hampton Roads, March 9, 1862.

The surrender of Fort Donelson in February of 1862, and Ulysses S. Grant was made a major-general the same month.

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, Mean Liver and Bowels Are Clogged—Cheer Up!

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.—Advertisement.

The C. W. B. M. Meeting.

Mrs. John Fraze, assisted by her daughters, Miss Rose Fraze and Mrs. L. H. Fraze, entertained the C. W. B. M. of the First Christian church Friday afternoon, in its regular meeting. It was an interesting session. The lesson subject was "The Missionary Education of the Children." Mrs. R. L. Finch, Mrs. Henry Westfall and Mrs. A. C. Hopkins read instructive papers on the subject. Reminiscences of the work of the children in an early day by the children of the church were given by Mrs. J. W. Ray. The present day organization of the children in the church was spoken of by Mrs. J. D. Frank, who made a most urgent appeal for more hearty co-operation by the C. W. B. M. with the leaders. During the social hour the hostess served a delightful luncheon and was assisted by her daughters, who were guests of the afternoon, also Miss Mina Armstrong, Mrs. A. W. Fraze, Rosetta and Forrest Froman and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong.

man, and a sketch of his life, and his style of writing explained. All his writings are for a purpose, and each teaches some great lesson. His play, "Before the Dawn," deals with the laws of heredity. "The Weavers," a play without a hero or heroine, takes up sociological questions; "The Coming of Peace," or "Strife," as it is known by some, had to do with unhappy conditions of family life due to willful misunderstandings; "Halane's Dream" is a beautiful story of the spiritual life as against the material life; "The Sunken Bell" is the story of the life of Hauptman, its writer, in which he shows failure in effort is not crime, but that crime lies in never attempting to do or be. Two novels were spoken of, "The Fools in Christ" and "Atlaistic," a story written after the Titanic disaster.

Miss Read carried her auditors with her and made them see each thing as it was presented by the great Hauptman. The German government asked Hauptman to write a play for the 10th anniversary of the fall of Napoleon, which he did, but it was forbidden a second performance on the German stage by the crown prince of that kingdom. However, the writer won the Nobel prize for his effort.

At the close of Miss Read's talk her friend, Miss Elizabeth Hughes, who spent three years in Pekin, China, as one of eighteen American teachers in the Indemnity university at Pekin, spoke a few words about her work with the Chinese people with whom she was associated, the high class Christian, educated Chinese. Jury Trial

Overwhelming Verdict

A few months ago, a man in no way connected with the making of Postum or the marketing of coffee, wrote to quite a number of physicians all over the country asking their unbiased testimony in the case of Postum vs. Coffee.

The following excerpts from their letters constitute an overwhelming verdict

In Favor of Postum

"I have discarded coffee altogether in my family, and instead use Postum which we find makes a rich, delicious drink, without any of the deleterious effects attendant on the continuous use of coffee."

"Our family have been users of Postum for a long time. We were very liberal coffee drinkers, but were conscious that coffee was harming us—our nervous system, digestion and heart action—so we quit the coffee and began using Postum. Now we relish it far more than we did coffee, and are all relieved of the old coffee troubles. As a physician I have induced several families to quit coffee and use Postum."

"Postum—when it is desirable to leave off coffee on account of over-stimulation or gastric disturbances."

"Postum has been used in my family nearly ever since it was placed on the market, and I recommend it to my patients. It is a nourishing drink. A great many families are giving their children Postum in place of coffee with best of results."

In the light of such testimony it would seem the part of wisdom to stop coffee and use Postum.

Postum is a genuine food-drink, made of whole wheat and a small per cent of molasses. Contains the nutritious values of the grain, but is pure and absolutely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled to bring out its fine flavor. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble form. A teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added—makes a delightful beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

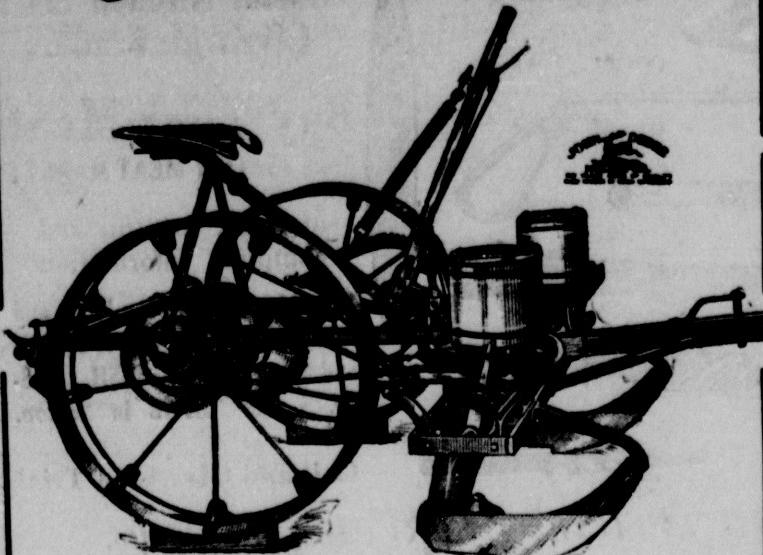

sold by grocers everywhere.

"I have used Postum for the past eight years in the place of coffee. Before that I was troubled with frequent bilious headaches due to excessive use of coffee, and was then advised to use Postum. Since that time I have not had a single attack, which effect I attribute entirely to Postum. I frequently recommend it to others who experience equally gratifying results."

"Hardly a week goes by that I do not advise some patient with an irritable, acid stomach and nervous heart to stop at once the use of all coffee and take up the use of Postum, and always with good results."

"I am satisfied that coffee is responsible in a great degree for the premature breakdown of our active men and women. They suffer from caffeine poisoning. Of the truth of this there is not the shadow of a doubt. Our common sense tells us that the daily swallowing of caffeine—over-stimulating the heart and brain—will be followed by nervous depression, and finally by more or less disastrous results. I believe if people in general would use Postum as a beverage in place of coffee and tea their mental and physical condition would be much improved."

Facts About Western Canada

The farmer of today is recognized as a business man and puts himself on the pay roll at salary beyond the dreams of the average man in the city, and he pays dividends on his investment.

Nowhere is he in a better position to realize the full profit of this condition than in Western Canada, with the rich productive soil at small cost and splendid markets; realizing from 40 to 100 per cent on his investment and obtaining the independence that cannot belong to any other business man.

The 433,000,000 bushel grain crop of Saskatchewan and Alberta yielded $235,000,000 to the farmers last year. This represents the partial yield of less than 15 per cent of the available land under cultivation. Millions upon millions of acres of the finest arable land in the world awaits the plough—YOUR PLOUGH.

The annual increase in the world's population establishes an ever-growing market, and nowhere can you find more ideal conditions for grain raising than Western Canada affords. Grain growing, however, is but one item in the success of the Canadian farmer.

HE LIKES TO WORK

JOHN J. MAHONEY WOULD RATHER WORK THAN LOAF.

RETIREES FROM SERVICE

On Account of Ill Health After a Continuous Service of 46 Years on the Railroad.

"How does it go, this being a gentleman of leisure?" John J. Mahoney was asked Monday by a friend who learned of his retirement from the service of the Burlington railway.

"I would rather work any day than loaf," said Mr. Mahoney, "and no man would ever catch me laying around if my strength had not failed me."

And that is the truth. Mr. Mahoney is justly proud of the esteem in which he has been held by the company, and he is especially grateful for the kind treatment he has received from the officials all these years, and from those at the passenger and freight stations. He has been employed by men and has employed hundreds of men during his work of forty-six years, and has managed to get along without trouble. When asked how he contrived to get along so well with the many sorts of men he has had to deal with, he laughed heartily and said he guessed he preferred to do as an Irishman is supposed to do, to let his body suffer, or chose to be a live coward than any-body's dead hero.

Mr. Mahoney has a record any man could well be proud of. In all the years he has cared for the Maryville section on the Burlington, a string of track nine miles long, the wrecking train has never had to go over until a month ago, when a freight engine went off the track at a point near the Wabash Y. And he never had but one handcar broken. That was quite a number of years ago. A passenger was pretty late and he had waited some time for it to pass. He finally concluded he and his men could make it to Maryville along about quitting time, and they were getting along their way right well, when here came the passenger around a curve full tilt. He saw it could not be stopped in time and slowed down his own handcar and called to his men to jump. They did, but the handcar was demolished. He was not held responsible by the company and a new handcar soon took its place. Another evidence of the company's faith in him.

Many has been the time in the night after a storm that Mr. Mahoney has left his home on his farm, two miles southeast of Maryville, that lies to the east of the Burlington track, to see if things were all right along the section. He said he had often been tormented with the thought that if a train should be wrecked and lives lost along his line, caused by a weakness in the track, that he could never forgive himself for negligence. And it was this thought that held him so closely to his duty.

"I thought a great deal of the company and loved the men over me, but after awhile I got to thinking just as much of the people that traveled over the line each day, the people I did not know. I was always thinking of their safety. And we never had wrecks and I am so glad about it. I can rest content in my old days, knowing that no man lost his life through my negligence, and that I watched every foot of track faithfully."

Mr. Mahoney says that things grew better and better with the years. Some people seem to think that things are not made as good as they used to be. He says that all the materials for use in his work have grown better and better and that the manufacture of all railroad materials are better now than ever before.

WRITES OF FREE TEXT BOOKS

State Superintendent Says Plan is Successful Wherever It Has Been Put Into Practice.

State Superintendent Wm. P. Evans writes County Superintendent Wm. Oakerson as follows about free text books which will be voted upon by the Maryville school district at the coming April school election:

"I desire to call your attention to the 'Free Textbook Law.' Any district city or county, may vote on Free Textbooks at the annual school meeting, if 15 days notice has been given.

"I do not wish to present a treatise on 'Free Textbooks,' but I do wish to call your attention to the fact that all the arguments for free public schools, free schoolhouses, free desks, free libraries and laboratories are arguments for free textbooks. Free textbooks are an essential part of a free public school system. Several states now have free books. No state has ever abandoned free textbooks after once adopting the system. St. Louis has supplied free books to its public school pupils for several years. Free books have been highly satisfactory in that city. Several large cities, as Kansas City, Chillicothe, Cape Girardeau, Jefferson City, etc., adopted free textbooks last fall under the Orr law.

All report that the system is quite satisfactory.

"Free books enable many poor children to attend school who otherwise would remain out of school. Free textbooks save much on the cost of books.

States and cities that have free books testify that the average annual cost per pupil is 40 cents to 75 cents. In Missouri, after the initial cost of installing free books, the county foreign insurance tax fund will maintain free books for the elementary grades. This fund now amounts to about 34 cents per pupil enumerated, or about 50 cents per pupil enrolled.

In several cities 50 cents per pupil maintains free books for both the high school and the grades. Under the Orr law, a district is allowed three years in which to install free books.

The terms of the two members of the school board, L. E. Carpenter and W. H. Crawford, will expire at the April election. Mr. Carpenter has only been a member for a short time, succeeding W. A. Blagg who resigned recently.

A mass meeting will be held a few days before the election to nominate the two members of the board.

Superintendent Westbrook was instructed to order 100 parchment diplomas.

Miss May Corwin was hired as supply teacher and will teach for half a day. A supply teacher was needed on account of the crowded condition of the school.

Wedding at Clyde.

Miss Josephine Kimmel, a daughter of the late George Kimmel of Clyde, and Mr. Martin Jensen, a son of C. M. Jensen of Clyde, were united in marriage at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Fr. Frown, pastor of St. Benedict's church at Clyde. They were attended by Miss Ellen Jensen and Mr. Andrew Kimmel, brother and sister of the bride and groom. The bride wore a lovely gown of white satin messaline with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of white carnations, while the bridesmaid wore a pink crepe de chine gown and carried pink carnations. The C. W. B. M. Meeting.

Mrs. John Frazee, assisted by her daughters, Miss Rose Frazee and Mrs. L. H. Frazee, entertained the C. W. B. M. of the First Christian church Friday afternoon, in its regular meeting. It was an interesting session. The lesson subject was "The Missionary Education of the Children." Mrs. R. L. Finch, Mrs. Henry Westfall and Mrs. A. C. Hopkins read instructive papers on the subject. Reminiscences of the work of the children in an early day by the children of the church were given by Mrs. J. W. Ray. The present day organization of the children in the church was spoken of by Mrs. J. D. Frank, who made a most urgent appeal for more hearty co-operation by the C. W. B. M. with the leaders. During the social hour the hostess served a delightful luncheon and was assisted by her daughters, who were guests of the afternoon, also Miss Mina Armstrong, Mrs. A. W. Frazee, Rosetta and Forrest Froman and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong.

A Rare Treat for the Tourists.

The Tourist department of the Twentieth Century club spent an unusual afternoon Monday at the Elks club, when the members gathered to listen to Miss Louella Read of Shenandoah, a delightfully charming and scholarly woman, on German writers. Miss Read came on invitation of the leader of the afternoon's study, Mrs. G. H. Colbert, her friend of several years. Miss Read is a graduate of Berlin university and is brilliantly fitted for the task she was given here on Tuesday. The Tourists heard her with breathless interest from the opening to the closing sentence. They listened to a comprehensive synopsis of several plays and novels by Gerard Hauptman, and a sketch of his life, and his style of writing explained. All his writings are for a purpose, and each teaches some great lesson. His play, "Before the Dawn," deals with the laws of heredity. "The Weavers," a play without a hero or heroine, takes up sociological questions; "The Coming of Peace," or "Strife," as it is known by some, had to do with unhappy conditions of family life due to willful misunderstandings; "Halane's Dream" is a beautiful story of the spiritual life as against the material life; "The Sunken Bell" is the story of the life of Hauptman, its writer, in which he shows failure in effort is not crime, but that crime lies in never attempting to do or be. Two novels were spoken of, "The Fools in Christ" and "Atlantic," a story written after the Titanic disaster.

Miss Read carried her auditors with her and made them see each thing as it was presented by the great Hauptman. The German government asked Hauptman to write a play for the 10th anniversary of the fall of Napoleon, which he did, but it was forbidden a second performance on the German stage by the crown prince of that kingdom. However, the writer won the Nobel prize for his effort.

At the close of Miss Read's talk her friend, Miss Elizabeth Hughes, who spent three years in Pekin, China, as one of eighteen American teachers in the Indemnity university at Pekin, spoke a few words about her work with the Chinese people with whom she was associated, the high class, Christian, educated Chinese. Jury Trial

A few months ago, a man in no way connected with the making of Postum or the marketing of coffee, wrote to quite a number of physicians all over the country asking their unbiased testimony in the case of Postum vs. Coffee.

The following excerpts from their letters constitute an overwhelming verdict

In Favor of Postum

"I have discarded coffee altogether in my family, and instead use Postum which we find makes a rich, delicious drink, without any of the deleterious effects attendant on the continuous use of coffee."

"Our family have been users of Postum for a long time. We were very liberal coffee drinkers, but were conscious that coffee was harming us—our nervous system, digestion and heart action—so we quit the coffee and began using Postum. Now we relish it far more than we did coffee, and are all relieved of the old coffee troubles. As a physician I have induced several families to quit coffee and use Postum."

"Postum—when it is desirable to leave off coffee on account of over-stimulation or gastric disturbances."

"Postum has been used in my family nearly ever since it was placed on the market, and I recommend it to my patients. It is a nourishing drink. A great many families are giving their children Postum in place of coffee with best of results."

In the light of such testimony it would seem the part of wisdom to stop coffee and use Postum.

Postum is a genuine food-drink, made of whole wheat and a small per cent of molasses. Contains the nutritious values of the grain, but is pure and absolutely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled to bring out its fine flavor. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble form. A teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added—makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

—sold by grocers everywhere.

"I have used Postum in my family for years with the most satisfactory result,—so much so that we have practically abolished coffee, and with it the coffee headaches, nervousness and lying awake the best part of the night."

"I drink Postum every morning, and recommend it to my friends who have 'nerves' and indigestion."

"No more coffee for me. I am using Instant Postum and advise my patients to do likewise. I prefer it to the best coffee, and I have no more sour stomach attacks as I used to."

"For years I have been using Postum in the family and advocating it for my patients. I consider it to be exactly what its manufacturers claim for it. Postum is excellent in place of coffee where the latter is contraindicated. The food value of Postum plays an important part when compared with coffee."

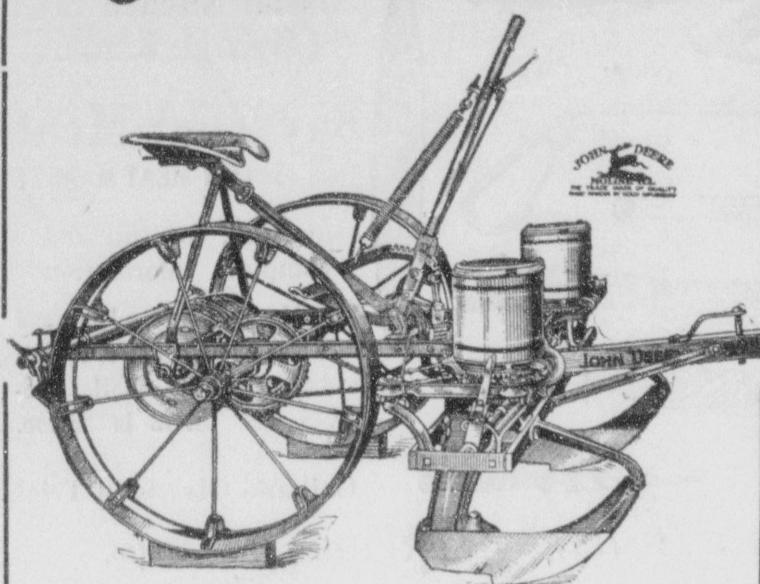

"Have had many cases that could not drink coffee on account of its reflex action on the heart. Postum always supplies the place of coffee without bad effects."

"I have used Postum for the past eight years in the place of coffee. Before that I was troubled with frequent bilious headaches due to excessive use of coffee, and was then advised to use Postum. Since that time I have not had a single attack, which effect I attribute entirely to Postum. I frequently recommend it to others who experience equally gratifying results."

"Hardly a week goes by that I do not advise some patient with an irritable, acid stomach and nervous heart to stop at once the use of all coffee and take up the use of Postum, and always with good results."

"I am satisfied that coffee is responsible in a great degree for the premature breakdown of our active men and women. They suffer from caffeine poisoning. Of the truth of this there is not the shadow of a doubt. Our common sense tells us that the daily swallowing of caffeine—over-stimulating the heart and brain—will be followed by nervous depression, and finally by more or less disastrous results. I believe if people in general would use Postum as a beverage in place of coffee and tea their mental and physical condition would be much improved."
